

Reading Response 1

Ling 144: Computational Methods
Instructor: Kelsey Kraus
Winter 2022

Due: 5 January 2022, 5:00pm

Reading for this week: We Who Tweet: Pronominal Relative Clauses on Twitter
(Conrod, Tatman, & Koncel-Kedziorski, 2016) Web Link / Canvas Link

Task: Submit a reading response. At the top of your submission, list which skill(s) you believe your response addresses.

Reading Responses should be between half a page and one page long, single-spaced.

Recall that:

- Each submitted reading response is worth 1% of your grade
- Turning in the assignment will also count as credit for a skill
- Each response should address at least one of the skills outlined below.
- Your response can address multiple skills!

Skills	Notes	# of times
1.1 Critical Engagement	Use these questions to guide your response: - What is the author's thesis and their conclusion? Do you think they're correct? - Do you think it's complete? Why? - Do you think it's convincing? Why? - What contribution(s) were made in this paper, and where should we go from here? - What more do we need to know?	2
1.2 Concise Summarization	Use these questions to guide your response: - What is the core research question? - What motivates this research question? - How does the author provide new data to advance their position? - What is the conclusion of the paper?	2
1.3 Question & Answer	Use these suggestions to guide a response: - Ask a follow-up question that you have from reading the paper, and propose a detailed answer to it. You don't need to know the answer, but how would you go about finding it? - Was there any part of the reading that needed more discussion or clarification? - Are there any terms or concepts that aren't explained, or aren't explained well? Look them up & write what you think they refer to	1